National Law University Jodhpur, during its twenty-five-year sojourn, has consistently been at the forefront of expanding the ambit of academic delivery and research across diverse spheres of law. Over this quarter-century-long odyssey, the University's approach has been characterised by a whole-hearted commitment to academic innovation and research, a vision of transforming education to strengthen future learning, the inculcation of the highest ethical standards in its students, and a deep respect for the legacy of legal systems while actively contributing to their timely evolution. As it marks this milestone, the University continues to serve as an emissary vouching for the highest standards of learning and research within the academic fraternity, firmly anchored in the belief that sound education is an expedient to the noble act of nation-building.

The University's teaching pedagogy harmoniously intermixes convention with innovation, with each faculty member accorded the liberty to chart the academic trajectory of the paper administered. Students are trained not merely to absorb but to analyse and rationalise, to critique and reform, to examine both the micro and macro dimensions of a problem, and to argue with fluidity and write with precision; all while drawing upon cutting-edge technology and access to some of the most fecund global legal databases. This pedagogical vigour is reinforced by a dynamic classroom environment and thriving research centres and programmes, which together enrich student learning through daily lectures, roundtable discussions, and conferences. These engagements also serve as blueprints for scholarly output and as catalysts for student involvement across multifarious spheres of law. Complementing this academic rigour, the University offers unparalleled opportunities for experiential learning through its organisational endeavours, internships, and skill-based and clinical courses.

From serving on the editorial boards of prestigious journals to spearheading research in specialised centres, from participating in pro bono initiatives to engaging in student-run mentorship programmes - the avenues for learning, networking, and professional growth at NLUJ are extraordinary.

The ethos of learning on the campus is an enabling and all-embracing one, receptive to diverse perspectives, which is thoughtfully cultivated and subsequently reflected in the exceptional display of our students' excellence across curricular, co-curricular, and extra-curricular pursuits. The University's multitudinous research centres function both individually and collectively to offer students insight into the treasure trove of interdisciplinary approaches to the study of law, with new collaborations emerging regularly. Recent among these are Memoranda of Understanding with Sidebar Consultants LLP, Noida for running specialised certificate courses; the National Law Institute University, Bhopal (NLIU), for academic and research collaboration; the Indian Institute of Technology Jodhpur, for interdisciplinary engagement between law and technology; the V.V. Giri National Labour Institutefor collaboration in the field of labour studies; the Rajiv K. Luthra Foundation, for the establishment of an Accessibility Lab on the University campus; with the Department of Information Technology & Communication (DoIT&C), Government of Rajasthan, for collaboration in the domain of digital governance and artificial intelligence; the Dinesh Vyas Public Charitable Trust for student welfare centric measures; Indus IntelliRisk& IntelliSense Services Pvt. Ltd. (IIRIS) for offering specialised courses on cyber security; the Cybersecurity Advisors Network (CyAN) and the CyberPeace Foundation, both for collaboration in the field of cybersecurity; and the National Insurance Academy, Pune, for collaboration in the field of insurance education and research.

Our alumni today stand at the vanguard of the Bar and the Bench, occupying positions of eminence in national and international law firms and formidable global conglomerates. As zealous advocates, they champion the rights of the people while sensitising society through the provision of pro bono legal assistance; they passionately campaign for environmental protection and the reduction of carbon footprints, even as they navigate the intricacies of intellectual property regimes and international trade agreements — with an abiding concern, throughout, for the future welfare of the globe.

In furtherance of its zeal for the advancement of scholarly research, the students and faculty of NLUJ publish extensively in journals of national and international repute. The University further encourages quality publications and the wide dissemination of ideas through its numerous in-house publications, namely Scholasticus, NLUJ Law Review, Trade Law & Development (TL&D), Indian Journal of Arbitration Law (IJAL), Journal on Governance, Comparative Constitutional Law & Administrative Law Journal (CALJ), Journal of Intellectual Property Studies (JIPS), Indian Competition Law Review (ICLR), and Solventia.

All the University stakeholders were immensely benefited by the visit of Prof. Paul Koster, Professor of Practice at Emory Law School, USA as Fulbright Specialist in the domain of Legal Writing & Research during July-August 2026.

The University's outcome-based approach to legal education is best evidenced by the achievements of its graduates. Having undergone years of rigorous training, our students emerge at the zenith of their skills and acumen, sought after by top global law firms and equipped to assume leadership roles at eminent social justice organisations, law firms, NGOs, governmental entities, and academic institutions alike. This calibre of training is reflected in tangible outcomes: our meritorious and assiduous scholars have secured positions and partnerships at prestigious international law firms such as Allen & Overy, Herbert Smith Freehills, and Linklaters LLP, while others have progressed toward partnerships in leading national law firms. Equally, a considerable number of national and state administrative and judicial service officers count themselves among the alumni who received their tutelage at this institution — a fitting testament to its motto, "Knowledge is Empowerment."

The consistent input on quality in academics and research has slowly yielded fruit in the form of multiple accolades and awards that our students have won in the current academic year. Some prominent moments of glory include emerging as Winners of the Global Rounds of the 20th LAWASIA International Moot Court Competition; Winners at the India Qualifier Rounds of the 50th Jean Pictet Moot Court Competition, 2026; Winners at the National Rounds of the IBA International Criminal Court Moot Court Competition, 2026; and Winners at the National Rounds of the 18th Frankfurt Investment Arbitration Moot Court Competition, 2026. On the national front, our teams triumphed as *Winners of the 13th NLUO-Bose & Mitra & Co. Notable wins include the 5th NUJS Client Counselling Competition, 2026; the 2nd Nithin Patil Memorial, SymArbitrate Client Counselling Competition, 2025 and CONCORDAT 5.0, where the winning team also secured the Best Counsel award.

Yet the measure of this education extends beyond professional accolades, however plentiful and gratifying. Through the Legal Aid and Awareness Committee (LAAC) and numerous rights based centres and committees focused on universal empowerment, our students consistently translate their training into philanthropic impact, demonstrating a sustained proclivity for all round progress that stands as a hallmark of the University's outcome-driven pedagogy.
